

“A Bespoke Banner of Oz variant 3”, an alternative Australian national flag design
(with suggested adaptations of the design to the other major flags and ensigns of the nation)

As in the original “A Bespoke Banner of Oz” flag design and in the two variants preceding this one, “A Bespoke Banner of Oz variant 3” incorporates Australia’s seven most symbolic colours in a quarter-length vertical pale at its hoist. Also as in those cases its pale features a Commonwealth Star and a kangaroo, and like variant 1 and variant 2 it depicts Uluru and the Pleiades Cluster. It represents the six states and the ten territories of the Commonwealth with a circular array of white stars, and although as in variant 2 it surrounds its two medallions with black borders, it avoids the darkness of that variant’s pale by placing its medallions on a field that has lighter stripes. As in previous versions, the horizontal and vertical symmetry afforded by its vertical stripes and by its medallions is visually aesthetic. The attractive border of the remaining three-quarter-length area of the design is also repeated in this variant, providing the same ability to accommodate the various colours, symbols, and patterns of the other flags and ensigns of Australia, as illustrated above.
